

Shalom [First Name],

A series of elections were held in Europe in recent weeks – and the results raise concerns about the future of the continent's Jews. On the extreme left, Israel haters; on the extreme right, a new variant of classic antisemitism. Eighty years after the Holocaust – is Europe again becoming unsafe for Jews? The decisive difference between then and now is the existence of a nation-state for the Jewish people.

Prof. Yedidia Stern

Tune in to "The Jewish People's Podcast," hosted by Yaakov Katz, for in-depth analysis of a range of issues, from the Israel-Hamas War to religious and cultural identity. Each episode features expert guests in various fields, providing diverse perspectives and insights. Join us Mondays and Thursdays at 11:00 A.M. EDT or listen at your convenience on our website.

Listen

Europe and the Jews

Prof. Yedidia Stern

The changing face of Europe leaves the Jews of Europe with no way out; they have but one insurance policy: Israel's Law of Return. (Jerusalem Post)

Read

Macron's Far-Left Allies Could Threaten French Jews

Dr. Dov Maimon

The condemnation of Israel is one of the far-left's main objectives and could weaken the fight against antisemitism. (JNS)

Read

The Magical Thinking of the Enlightened Center

Avi Gil

The middle way offers no solution to the one issue that most threatens Israel's future as a Jewish and democratic state. (Times of Israel)

Read

Don't Arrest Haredi Draft Resisters

Dr. Shuki Friedman

Israel cannot survive unless haredim serve in the IDF, but there are less draconian measures that can be taken. (JNS)

Read

Israel Must Target Iran at the Same Time as Hezbollah

Yaakov Katz

While the Hezbollah threat must be addressed, stopping Iran from obtaining nukes needs to be the ultimate objective. (Newsweek)

Read

The Anti-Zionism of Some Rabbinical Students Is a Poisonous Self-Deception

Prof. Gil Troy

At graduation, some of the new rabbis wore keffiyehs and sported watermelons, evoking the Palestinian flag's red, green, and black. (Jerusalem Post)

Read

How 'Suicidal' Empathy Empowers Radicalism and War

Samuel J. Hyde

The brutality and cynicism of Hamas's tactics are unmistakable; their use of civilian infrastructure is a deliberate component of their military doctrine.

Read

JPPI's Voice of the Jewish People Index

Over 80% of American Jews opposed the suspension of arms shipments to Israel as a diplomatic pressure tool.

Read

